LEGENDARY ballet dancer Valentina Kozlova (inset) leapt to fame in 1979 when she dramatically defected to the United States while performing as a principal dancer with the Bolshoi Ballet in New York City. Kozlova made her name in Manhattan as a principal with the New York City Ballet. She then opened up her own ballet school, which recently relocated to Norwalk, Conn. Now the ballet icon and philanthropist is selling her Hampton Bays dacha — that's Russian for cottage — for $569,000. The charming home is an updated ranch at 8 Holiday Court. At 1,200 square feet, the woodsy sanctuary has three bedrooms, 1½ bathrooms and a wood stove. The listing brokers are Douglas Elliman's Constance Porto, Anne Marie Francavilla and Carol Pugliese.
