Remember the '90s? Probably not -- since we're talking about the 1890s, when this brownstone was built on West 76th Street, just "steps" from Central Park. It's where you'll find this "stunningly renovated" co-op with 10-foot beamed ceilings, a woodburning fireplace, a modern kitchen and a 390-square-foot private terrace. Plus, it's just 10 percent down.
